Discrete Diffusion Language Models
Eve Green, Frank Black
NeurIPS 2025, 2025

Abstract: Masked discrete diffusion for language: corruption processes, sampling schedules and the trade-off between parallel decoding and quality.

Discrete diffusion corrupts tokens with a masking process and learns to reverse it.

Parallel decoding reduces the number of sampling steps.

References

[1] Smith, A., Jones, B. (2026). Flow Matching for Language Generation. Journal of Synthetic Tests. https://doi.org/10.1234/flowlm.2026

[2] White, C., Brown, D. (2026). Training-Time Drift for Generative Modeling. arXiv:2601.01234.