Flow Matching for Language Generation
Alice Smith, Bob Jones
Journal of Synthetic Tests, 2026

Abstract: We study continuous-time flow matching for discrete language generation, mapping noise to token embeddings with a learned velocity field.

We propose a continuous-time flow matching objective for language generation.

The model learns a velocity field that transports a prior to token embeddings.

Sampling solves an ODE with 32 Euler steps in our experiments.